WILL INVESTIGATE BERRY'S CHARGES

House Committee to Consider Accusations Against Chief of Weather Bureau.

Washington, July 21.—Announcement was made today by Representative Moss that his committee would consider at an early date the charges against Professor Willis L. Moore, chief of the Weather Bureau, which have been preferred by James Berry, a former employee of the bureau. Mr. Berry charges that Professor Moore has unlawfully expended money in the employment of experts in about the same manner as Dr. Wiley.

The committee will take up its investigation of the Weather Bureau after we have disposed of the Wiley case," said Chairman Moss today. "We had intended to have the inquiry in progress by this time, but the Wiley charges took precedence, and we had to delay taking up the investigation into the Weather Bureau for the present."

Says He Exceeded Authority.
"Mr. Berry has filed several charges against the administration of the Weather Bureau. I have had some correspondence about the Odenback case, in which Mr. Berry charges that Professor Moore has gone beyond his authority in his attempt to engage expert services of the Rev. F. L. Odenback, of Cleveland, in connection with the latter's seismological observations."

don't know that any payments have actually been made to Dr. Odenback. The committee will have to look into this, and this will be one of the things brought up when the committee starts its general investigation of the Weather Bureau."

"We hope to begin the investigation of the Wiley charges next week, and when this matter is concluded will be in position to take up Weather Bureau matters."

Substance of the Charges.
Mr. Berry filed his charges against Professor Moore at the Department of Justice, alleging that the services of the Rev. Dr. Odenback were engaged to be paid for out of the exigency fund of the bureau. He declares this to be unlawful, as there is no provision in the appropriation for the Weather Bureau which permits such expenditures for seismological information of this character. Attorney-General Wickham forwarded the charges to the Agricultural Department, but made no recommendation.

Washington, July 21.—Attorney-General Wickersham will be given a hearing before the House Committee on Judiciary next Monday, relative to the charges preferred against him by Delegate Wickersham, of Alaska, that the Attorney-General had refused to investigate the alleged "grab" of waterfront sites on Controller Bay, Alaska, after proof had been furnished with him. The hearing was decided upon today by the committee, after the Attorney-General had expressed a desire to appear before it.

The Attorney-General recently declared the whole matter had been investigated and had not been outlawed as had been alleged by the Alaskan delegate. There is now a certain phase of the matter under investigation, but just what is, the Attorney-General has refused to divulge.

The theft was committed on the night of the 8th of July, and the thief and stolen property were traced out into North Carolina, but never found. TRIAL ADJOURNED IN WILD DISORDER

Lawyers Flee Room, and Carabinieri Compelled to Clear Chamber.

Viterbo, Italy, July 21.—The most violent scene of the Camorrist trial to date was provoked today by a personal dispute between Captain Fabroni and Lawyer Lloy. In the tumult all the other lawyers fled from the room, Enrico Alfano and Gennaro Abatemaggio, the informers, were thrown out bodily by the carabinieri. Giovanni Bartolozzi fell in a fit, and President Bianchi, helpless to maintain order, declared the session adjourned.

Throughout the hubbub Fabroni stood pale and impassive. As the court room was being cleared, he said: "The Camorra, in or out of court, can't intimidate me."

Fabroni, captain of the Neapolitan carabinieri, was assigned by the ministry of justice to support the Camorrist trial. During the past few days he has told on the stand the results of his detective work and the operations of his associates, Marshal Capizzutti and Marshal Farris. Alessandro Lloy, now attorney for the defense, formerly edited a newspaper. Fabroni has testified that revelations against the Camorra made by Editor Lloy were not in harmony with the claims set up by Lawyer Lloy in defense of his clients. Bitter personal feeling between the detective and the lawyer has resulted.

Prisoners Shout Invective.
When court opened today Captain Fabroni was asked by Cavaliere Santoro, the crown prosecutor, whether the assertion of Zanelli that Marshal Capizzutti had tried to influence him to testify falsely against his fellow-prisoners were true. Fabroni replied: "Zanelli is the scum of criminality. Instead it was Lloy who, through Zanelli, attempted to buy witnesses for the defense."

This reflection on the lawyer raised the first storm. Lloy screamed at a madman. Abatemaggio, notwithstanding the caution of the president, joined in the row in support of the captain. Enrico Alfano, the alleged head of the Camorra, led the others of the accused in the chorus of invectives directed against Fabroni and Abatemaggio.

Finally the president ordered Abatemaggio and Alfano removed from the room. They were not disposed to go quietly and continued their cries and threats, supported by carabinieri and dragged from the place.

For a little while there was a calm, and the president took advantage of the opportunity to admonish all to avoid personalities. "We should aim only at the triumph of truth, as it is directly connected with the trial of this case. We must not go into personalities," he said.

With much feeling Fabroni replied: "For years I have stood the insults of this man Lloy without trying him before the courts, because I considered him a criminal, but a person whose mental faculties were unimpaired." Lloy retorted in fury, and in conclusion called the witness a hypocrite. "A greater hypocrite than yourself does not exist," Fabroni replied.

This exchange stirred the prisoners and opposing counsel to a frenzy that fairly shook the court of the assizes. All of the lawyers for the defense except Lloy, shouting indignation, stalked out of the room. Lloy jumped up, gesticulating and yelling like a madman, hurling epithets at the crown's witness.

Meantime the prisoners in the great steel cage formed a sort of claque, hissing and cursing their accusers and applauding their lawyers. Giovanni Bartolozzi and others pressed their heads between the cage like wild animals struggling to reach their tormentor.

"Get your heads back in there," ordered the carabinieri, with a threatening movement.

"No; cut off our heads. Yes, behead us," they cried.

"Our women!" screamed Francesco Di Stefano. "Have become debauched because of this pig."

Then Bartolozzi tumbled over in an epileptic fit. The doctors entered the cage to attend him and were followed by a score of carabinieri, each of whom seized a prisoner and held him until he was physically exhausted.

After a while the court, weary and futile, President Bianchi adjourned the sitting.
